Split personality

Two Rivieras illustrate a point — that the Riviera is a car with two distinct personalities. For some people it's the most beautiful car around. Then there's another group, equally audible, who insist it's not so much how the Riviera looks but what it does. And they have quite a case. The whole idea behind the Riviera was to put some adventure back in driving. We knew we'd succeeded with at least one man when he told us, "I felt like I was driving a car for the first time." Which group is right? Which is the real Riviera? You decide. Get in touch with your Buick dealer and decide in the comfort of a Riviera's left front bucket seat. If you decide to take the car home with you, the price he quotes will come as a happy surprise.

The outstanding public response to major league sports attractions at Metropolitan Stadium has prompted Stadium Commission members to give serious thought to plans for expanding the Stadium to provide more and better seating for both American League baseball and National League football.

Officials of both the Minnesota Twins and the Minnesota Vikings are anxious to see the Stadium expanded to a capacity of at least 50,000 seats for both sports. Both of these major league enterprises have gone "over the top" with fans of the Upper Midwest and each feels that the present 40,000-plus capacity is not sufficient to handle public demand. On the basis of their needs, each club has submitted to the commission a plan for expanding the Stadium.

The Commission members, too, have spent considerable time exploring the problem and have brought forth some expansion proposals of their own. Commission chairman Gerald L. Moore is confident that from discussions among Commission members and representatives of the Twins and the Vikings will come some concrete proposals that will ensure Stadium enlargement in the near future.

All parties involved are in complete agreement that when an expansion program is adopted and carried out Metropolitan Stadium will emerge as the finest Stadium in the country. The completed Stadium will stand as a monument to those persons whose foresight and perseverance resulted in the original construction of the Stadium and the subsequent arrival of major league baseball and football in the Upper Midwest.

Twins Twinkler ★ ★ ★

Dailey, William Garland

Born May 13, 1935, at Arlington,
Va. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 185
lbs. Throws and bats righthanded.
Married and lives in Phoenix, Arizona.

A sidearming, sinkerballing relief specialist, Bill was purchased by the Twins from Cleveland on April 9, 1963, and qualified as the Catch of the Year. He quickly developed into one of the most effective relief pitchers in the American League. A product of the Washington, D. C., area, Bill had been coveted by the Twins when they were the old Washington Senators. It was only after 10 years of his pitching professionally, mostly in the minor leagues, that they were able to latch onto him. In the minors, Bill was some shucks as a starter. In his best seasons, he was 17-4 at Keokuk in 1955, and 15-6 at Mobile in 1956. Last year while at Salt Lake City in the Pacific Coast League, he won 10 and lost four before earning a promotion to the Indians where he was 2-2 in 27 games as a reliever.

James Evans (Jim) Perry

Born October 30, 1936, at Williamston, N. C. Height: 6 ft., 4 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Throws righthanded, bats left and righthanded. Married and lives in Plymouth, N. C.

The Twins' search for a right-handed starter to balance their pitching staff was rewarded May 2, 1963, with the acquisition of Perry from Cleveland in a straight trade for Lefty Jack Kralick. Jim had averaged 13 victories for the first four seasons in the majors with an average of nearly eight completions per year. His 10 shutouts ranked him among the American League's elite. Perry achieved his peak in 1960 when he tied Baltimore's Chuck Estrada for most victories and won Sophomore of the Year honors. In 1961, he was on the A. L. squad for the first All-Star Game but didn't play. An alumnus of Campbell College in Buies Creek, N. C., Jim was signed to his first pro contract by Scout Jimmy Gruzdis of Cleveland. As a rookie in 1959, Jim hit .300 in 44 games, placing second only to his new teammate, Camilo Pascual (.302) among hitting pitchers in the A. L. Jim won 18 games and lost ten in 1960, his peak before coming to the Twins. A brother, Gaylord Perry, pitches for the Giants. Since coming to the Twins, Jim has earned a reputation as the "hard luck" hurler of the Twins' staff, having pitched a number of outstanding games in which his teammates failed to back him up with base-hit support.

Zoilo Versalles

Born in Havana, Cuba, December 18, 1940. Height: 5 ft. 10 in. Weight: 150 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Married. Residence: Bloomington, Minnesota.

It was a great day for the immigrant from Cuba who reported to his first major league training camp at 18 and predicted he would one day be the best shortstop in the league.

On July 9, 1963, Zoilo achieved an ambition of long standing when he was voted by American League players as their starting shortstop in the All-Star Game in Cleveland. He made the most of the nomination by reaching base three times in three at-bats, on a single, walk and hit-by-pitch, and he handled three fielding chances flawlessly.

It took Zoilo four years to fulfill the prediction and, in that time, he has matured from a brash, outspoken, sometime resented kid into a confident, determined, respected performer. It was in 1962 for the first time Zoilo gave positive indications of his "arrival" as a star when, with his great range, hands and arm, he led all A. L. shortstops in chances accepted and double-play participation.

Although not built along power lines, he banged 17 homers, more than any other shortstop in the club's history. He also proved durable, playing in 160 games, more than any other shortstop in American League history. A clutch performer with bat and glove, Zoilo is said to have the best future of any A. L. shortstop now playing, according to his manager, Sam Mele.

Zoilo's use of English has improved so markedly that, during the last off-season, he was employed as a public relations aide by the Twins and made effective sales talks throughout the Upper Midwest. He has built a home within almost walking distance of Metropolitan Stadium.

Richard John (Rich) Rollins

Born at Mt. Pleasant, Pa., April 16, 1938. Height: 5 ft. 10 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Married. Lives in Parma, Ohio.

Voted the American League Sophomore of the Year honor for 1962, Rich could merit a prize as 1963's Most Courageous Player. After a disappointing spring training in '63, Rich achieved new depths when the day before Opening Game he was hit by a pitched ball and his jaw was fractured.

Within a month of the painful injury and still wearing splints and wires in his mouth, Rich was back in the lineup and hitting with the authority and timeliness of 1962. At mid-season, he was challenging the leaders in the batting race. Rich's quick ascent to stardom came as somewhat of a surprise last spring.

He seemed ticketed for another season in the minors but his aggressive play in the South earned him the starting job at third base. So impressive was he that he won the starting assignment in the All-Star Game. He continued to hit with power and wound up with 16 homers, 96 runs batted in and the best batting average on the Twins, .298.

He earned eighth place in balloting for American League Most Valuable Player. The muscular redhead was signed for the Twins by Floyd Baker, then a scout. Rollins had starred at Kent State University in Ohio, and in American Legion ranks around Cleveland. A former part-time teacher, Rich last winter was a touring speaker in the Twins public relations department.

METROPOLITAN STADIUM PARKING, APPROACHES

Minnesota Twins' fans have the best parking layout in the major leagues with room for 15,000 automobiles and 180 buses.

So that fans might more easily find their cars after Twins games, the parking area has been divided into ten individual lots, each named after a different American League team. Each lot will have a huge eight-foot by ten-foot team insignia mounted atop a 30-foot high pole. Parking stubs will have corresponding insignias imprinted on them for parking area identification.

All lots are illuminated at night. Traffic flow is directed by the police. Each lot has its separate entrance.

The above plan was developed by the Burton-Aschman traffic engineering group of Evanston, Ill., in cooperation with The Cerny Associates, Inc. of Minneapolis, stadium architects.

HOW TO KEEP SCORE

Half the fun at a ball game is keeping your own score. It adds to the enjoyment of watching a ball game, and talking about it days, weeks and even months later. And the best part of it is that it's easy.

Most scorers number the nine positions, and use symbols and abbreviations. The standard numbering plan is: pitcher, 1; catcher, 2; first baseman, 3; second baseman, 4; third baseman, 5; shortstop, 6; left fielder, 7; center fielder, 8; and right fielder, 9.

Suggested abbreviations: W for walk; K for strikeout; E for error; WP for wild pitch; PB for passed ball; S for sacrifice; SF for sacrifice fly; F for foul out.

Recording of the play is simple if the batter is retired. If he flies to left, a 7 tells the story (F-7 in case it's a foul fly). If he is thrown out, say third to first, it's 5-3, the first figure indicating the man fielding and throwing the ball and the second figure showing the man making the putout.

When a batter hits safely, use a single bar (—) for a single; a double bar (=) for a double; three bars (≡) for a triple and four (☰) for a home run. Direction of the hit can be indicated by a number (—7, single to left; =8, double to center, etc.)

When a batter reaches first base, how he did it is recorded in the lower right-hand corner of the square. The batter's progress around the bases is then recorded in the four corners of his box. The lower right corner represents first base, upper right, second base, upper left, third, and lower left is home plate.

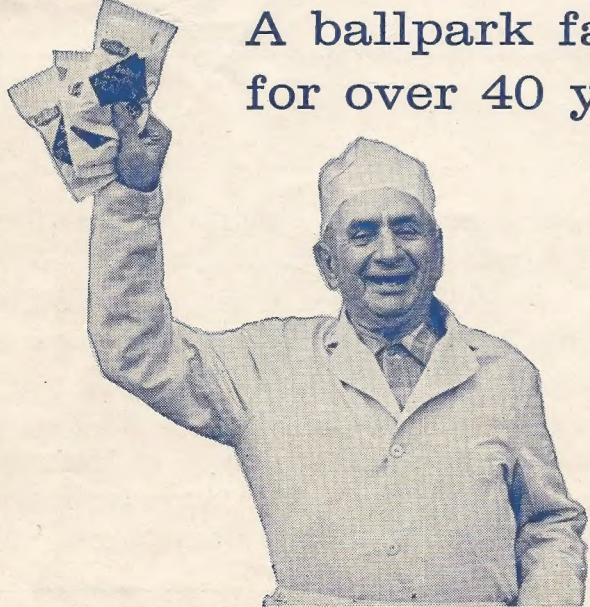

Scorecard illustration shows that Green (centerfielder or 8) singled to right field (—9 in lower right-hand corner). Versalles walked, moving Green to second. Note the 6, Versalles' position number, at second base for Green, showing how he advanced. Killebrew grounded out, third to first (5-3). Both men, Versalles and Green, advance one base. Note the 3 for Versalles and Green showing how they advanced. Allison hit a sacrifice fly to left field (SF-7) scoring Green. (It is convenient to circle all runs as shown so that scoring plays may be seen at a glance.) Versalles remained at second. Power then hit a home run into the centerfield stands (≡8) and scored along with Versalles. Battey grounded out to the first baseman, unassisted (3U).

You'll find that you'll enjoy the game all the more when you start keeping an accurate scorecard, and before long you'll have a bag full of your own special scoring gimmicks, symbols and abbreviations.

What so proudly we hailed
At the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
Through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched
Were so gallantly streaming.
